

The Chicagoland Evaluation Association (CEA) presents

A Taste of AEA

This professional development event provides an opportunity for people to hear the talks presented by CEA members at the American Evaluation Association (AEA) conference in November 2009 (and at other notable recent conferences):

- ❖ "Formative Evaluation of Online Learning Programs: Factors Promoting Student Success" by Jonathan Margolin, Learning Point Associates
- ❖ "The Impact of Evaluation Capacity Building Activities" by Leah C. Neubauer, DePaul University
- ❖ "The Organizational Context of Human Services Evaluation: Capacity, Data Collection, and Utilization" by Lois Thiessen-Love, Uhlichs Children's Advantage Network
- ❖ "Starting and Succeeding as an Independent Evaluation Consultant" by Judah Viola, National Louis University

When: Wednesday, March 10, 2010 from 5:30 to 6:30 pm (Discussion/social time will follow.)

Where: National Louis University (NLU), 122 South Michigan Ave, Suite 3114

Who: You! To RSVP (optional) or for additional information, please contact Jonathan Margolin at jmargolin@learningpt.org.

About CEA

CEA is an affiliate of the American Evaluation Association (AEA) and is comprised of professional evaluators and graduate students in the Chicago area. CEA members work in diverse fields including education, human and social services, public health, early childhood and family programming, museums, and agriculture. The organization provides a forum for evaluators to network with one another, exchange ideas and knowledge, and participate in professional development activities that promote excellence in the field of evaluation. To learn more about CEA, please visit our website: <http://www.evalchicago.org>.

